Cancer Symposium

An OHSU Knight Cancer Institute and
Salem Health Cancer Institute collaboration

Join us for dinner, drinks, and CME presentations.

This Cancer Educational Program is intended for providers in oncology, medical specialties, primary care, and clinical staff who support oncology patients across the continuum of care.

Agenda

Delivering on the Promise of Precision Oncology

Gordon Mills, MD, PhD, Director, Precision Oncology,
Knight Cancer Institute, Oregon Health and Science University

Symptom Management: An Oncology Review

Jamie Ellis-Wittenhagen, DO, Interim Medical Director,
Palliative Care, Salem Health Medical Group

Objectives

1. Participants will be able to understand the precepts of precision oncology and the role Knight Cancer Institute is playing in precision oncology. Participants will also know of current precision oncology trials taking place at the Knight Cancer Institute.
2. Participants will be able to understand the basics of symptom management for the cancer patient. Participants will be able to apply these lessons to patient care to broaden their scope for treatment of pain, nausea, fatigue, constipation as well as other symptoms.
